

When it comes to defending the faith... there is no 'Plan B'

The Catholic Church is under attack from Big Abortion!

The abortion cartel, led by Planned Parenthood and other agenda-driven organizations, is determined to introduce bills in state legislatures that would force Catholic healthcare providers to offer a medication called "Plan B"—the so-called emergency contraceptive—to victims of sexual assault, even though doing so would violate Catholic teachings that refer to any form of artificial contraception as "inherently evil."

Big Abortion insists that Plan B is not like RU-486, the abortion pill. However, even the manufacturers acknowledge that these pills can act in the first few days after fertilization has occurred, but before the living, developing human embryo has a chance to implant in the wall of the mother's womb. The pro-abortion wordsmiths insist this is not abortion; however, this action of the Plan B regimen results in the taking of a human being's life.

At this critical juncture, when the abortion lobby is pushing for legislation that would force our Catholic hospitals to either obey the law or obey God, the united voices of our bishops would make a tremendous difference. We present this message today to unmask this stealth campaign by the abortion industry and shine a light on this anti-Catholic undertaking so all Catholics—and most especially all Catholic bishops—are aware that the very future of Catholic healthcare in the United States is at stake.

Most reverend bishops, the Church needs your strong, united voices to stop this evil in its tracks!
