In their mission statement, The Fuller Center for Housing illustrates its Christian values as a volunteering organization. They also state that they do not rely on or promote reliance on the government for assistance. They state the following:

We try to follow the teachings of the Bible and believe that it says that we shouldn't charge interest of the poor, so we don't. Government has a role in our work in helping set the stage, but that we shouldn't look to it as a means to fund the building of homes.

This link provides the reasons why Millard Fuller, the founder of Habitat for Humanity, resigned from his post at Habitat and started The Fuller Center for Housing because corporate initiatives at Habitat began minimizing its Christian values.
